

Richard Waters

West Coast Editor, Financial Times

Based in San Francisco, Richard Waters is responsible for the West Coast editorial coverage of the Financial Times and FT.com. He also leads the FT's coverage of the information technology industry.

Before moving to the West Coast, Richard worked for the FT in New York for nine years. His various roles there included New York bureau chief and Wall Street correspondent. He was also the FT's Information Industries Editor, tracking the convergence of technology, telecommunications and media.

Richard began his FT career in London, where he held a number of financial reporting positions, including head of the international capital markets desk, securities industry correspondent and accountancy and taxation correspondent.

He has won awards for his coverage of Google's IPO, the bankruptcy of Bank of Credit and Commerce International, and his reporting on accountancy.